5. Guest Presentation:
Mr. Jerome DeSanto, Vice President of Planning and Chief Information Officer was the guest presenter.

Mr. DeSanto distributed a draft of the Strategic Plan which he plans to present to the Board of Trustees at their May meeting. He said that part of the planning process is to seek feedback from various constituencies on campus before the plan is presented to the Board.

Mr. DeSanto briefly outlined the planning process, the three levels of planning, and how each level relates to the other. He said that as the planning process evolved, three themes developed; Cura Personalis, Magis and Res Solicitude (Stewardship).

Mr. DeSanto explained that the Strategic Plan is the roadmap to how we allocate University resources the next five years to ensure that the plan is implemented.

Mr. DeSanto opened the session up to questions:
Q. Some of the points in the plan are general; will there be a blueprint that will define these points?
A. The Strategic Plan is written to be general, to set goals; the tactical plans are where the blueprint of how we are going to meet these goals is laid out. He said that the vice president’s have been discussing how the tactical plans need to be geared toward the Strategic Plan.

Q. It sounds like the tactical plans guide how the Strategic Plan gets implemented. Are the tactical plans written after the Strategic Plan is approved?
A. The tactical plans are living documents. The vice presidents are now reviewing their tactical plans and will make changes to them as needed. They are looking at how their departments can contribute to the Strategic Plan’s success.

Q. What about on-line courses, where do they fit in?
A. On-line courses would fit under globalization and growing graduate programs. The President is comfortable offering on-line courses at the graduate level, but he wants to preserve the undergraduate experience so you will not see undergraduate on-line courses.

Q. How are you going to ensure buy-in at all levels of the University community?
A. Senior management needs to think through how to better engage everyone on campus. Management and leadership will need to articulate the role and responsibilities to their charges.

Mr. Murphy said that he would like to get something to Mr. DeSanto within that next two weeks and asked senators to send any thoughts or feedback to Ms. Murphy by April 16th. He thanked Mr. DeSanto for coming.
