UPDATE ON EL SALVADOR
Monday, Nov. 8, noon, Brennan 228
Lunch and refreshments

Héctor Lindo-Fuentes
Professor of History and Latin American Studies. Ph.D. Chicago
Latin America, Central American economic history, history of education

Dr. Lindo-Fuentes has published books on the economic history of Central America, on education and on the politics of memory in El Salvador (see book section). He is currently working on Modernizing Minds in El Salvador. The 1968 Education Reform and the Road to Civil War a book under contract with SUNY Press.
He is member and past director of Fordham University’s interdisciplinary program in Latin American and Latino Studies (http://www.fordham.edu/lalsi). At the undergraduate level he teaches core courses in Latin American history, as well as upper-level electives on Central America, the history of education in Latin America, and Latin America and the U.S.. At the graduate level he teaches "Latin America and the U.S.,” "20th-Century Latin America,” and "Education and the State in Latin America." He has taught courses at the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign, the University of California at Santa Barbara, UCLA, Columbia University, and universities in El Salvador, Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

He is member and past president of the seven-member national commission for accreditation of higher education institutions of El Salvador and is a member of the Ford Foundation advisory group for the social sciences in Central America. He was president of the Board of Trustees of the Center for Regional

ALL WELCOME!