Charlotte Brown—Charlotte graduated from University of Scranton with a degree in early childhood and special education. She is working with pre-school students in Spokane, Washington. Charlotte shares that she is excited to help give low income students the same opportunities as other students.

Megan Callahan—Megan graduated from University of Scranton with a degree in elementary education, special education. She is teaching in Omak, Washington. Megan shares that she is so very excited to be in the classroom as a Jesuit Volunteer. She can’t wait help her students work towards all that they wish to achieve!
Elizabeth Pulice—Elizabeth graduated from University of Scranton with degrees in biology and philosophy. She is working with homeless teenagers at a drop-in shelter in Yakima, Washington. Elizabeth shares that she is really looking forward to connecting with the youth that come to the shelter. She has some experience with at-risk youth, but she believes that she will really benefit from the time connecting with her clients.

Kimberly Witt—Kimberly graduated from University of Scranton with a degree in counseling and human services with minors in Spanish, criminal justice and philosophy. She is working with immigrant and refugee families and helping them integrate into the U.S. in Boise, Idaho. Kimberly shares that she is excited to meet people from all over the world and help them transition to the U.S.