SCRANTON — The University of Scranton broke ground Thursday morning on a new rehabilitation education center.

It’s being built on the site of the former Leahy Hall at the corner of Jefferson Avenue and Linden Street.

The facility will house the exercise science, occupational therapy and physical therapy departments.

Construction is expected to take about a year.