

November 25, 2024

Dear Friends,

In these present days, when human dignity is threatened by many daunting forces, Scranton's efforts to recognize and affirm the image of God in every person seems more important than ever. When you have a moment, I encourage you to check out the revised webpages of our University plan for enhancing and supporting diversity, equity and inclusion across the campus community. A great deal of work has been done by many hands to achieve the goals of our plan and that good work will continue.

Over the next year, the Division of Mission and Ministry will work on a project with the Council for Diversity and Inclusion and the Office of Equity and Diversity to add citations from Catholic Social Teaching to the plan so as to make visible the cohesion between our efforts and the teachings of the Church.

Thank you for all you continue to do to advance our mission. I wish you and your families a very happy and blessed Thanksgiving.

Yours faithfully,

Joseph G. Marina, S. J.

President