

Why Learn Chinese?

- Chinese is the most widely spoken language in the world with over 1.2 billion speakers.
- Not only is China's economy one of the most important economies in the world, but interest in the language and the culture has increased with more tourists than ever visiting the home of the language.
- The Chinese language can be heard throughout the world, and with its official language status in 6 countries as well as being one of the six official languages of the United Nations, it is no wonder that millions of people are investing in learning the language.

Employment

- International businesses prefer to hire people who speak more than one language. China has become a huge market, and business leaders are looking for people who can speak Chinese and operate successfully
- China will play a major role in world affairs in the future. As China now has opened up to the West, there are opportunities for employment in all areas.
- China is a wonderful country in which to teach English while developing your language and cultural skills. The experience is great, and it's something you will never forget.
- Teach in China: A program offered through the Council on International Education Exchange
- China Employment Center at China Online.
- Greater China Job Listings from Wang & Li Asia Resources
- Job Information Journal: China ESL Cafe's journal of various job experiences in China, including places you should avoid when looking for employment.