- *As a final requirement, all students must complete a capstone experience prior to graduation. To fulfill this capstone requirement, the student may select a thesis or non-thesis option.

- *Students take 15 elective credits. In the thesis option, nine credits are taken in elective courses and six credits are devoted to the thesis. In the non-thesis option, all 15 elective credits are taken in courses. Selection of courses for the elective part of the program should be made in consultation with a faculty mentor. By judicious selection of courses, students may form a concentration in such areas as Eastern Christian Studies, Scripture, Systematic Theology or Moral Theology.

WHAT NEXT? HOW TO PROCEED FROM HERE

Apply Now

Admission to the Master of Arts in Theology program is based on a combination of indicators: previous academic performance resulting in a bachelor’s degree, three professional letters of recommendation, and an essay submission.

We welcome applications on a rolling basis for all available terms. To apply to the Theology program or for additional application and admission information, please visit scranton.edu/gradapply.

Schedule a Visit

Personal appointments with an Admissions representative are offered Monday through Friday and can provide insight to the application and admission process. Sign up online to register for your visit at: scranton.edu/gradvisit.

Contact the Program Director

You are encouraged to contact the Program Director, Brigid Curtin Frein, Ph.D., for information on the academic components of the Theology program.

To contact Dr. Frein, please email brigid.frein@scranton.edu or call 570.941.7736.

Admission Criteria for Acceptance

While not required, an important prerequisite for admission to the Theology graduate program is a solid preparation in the humanities. Such a background would almost certainly be assured with at least 9 credits in philosophy and 15 credits in theology. Test scores are not uniformly required, but may be requested in certain cases. Students who lack the necessary undergraduate preparation may be provisionally accepted with the requirement that certain undergraduate courses be taken.

The Theology graduate program allows students the opportunity to participate in short-term travel courses during intersession and the summer to the Holy Land, Germany, southeast Europe and Uganda.

DO MORE

Graduate Assistantships

Graduate assistantships are available on a competitive basis to graduate students who seek to strengthen the breadth and quality of the educational experience. Graduate assistants work with faculty and staff in the areas of teaching, research and/or administration. The graduate assistant is awarded a tuition scholarship as well as a stipend. More at: scranton.edu/ga.

Career Development Services

Theology students have full access to the services of the Gerard R. Roche Center for Career Development, which include resume and cover letter writing, interview and job search techniques, and participation in employer on-campus recruiting visits and Career Expos. Students and alumni can access a wide range of employment opportunities through the office’s online job posting system. The career team is available to consult for advice and support throughout your career. More at: scranton.edu/careers.
