Friends of the Supreme Court

Paul Collins is pleased to announce the publication of Friends of the Supreme Court: Interest Groups and Judicial Decision Making (Oxford University Press).

Here is an excerpt from the acknowledgements:

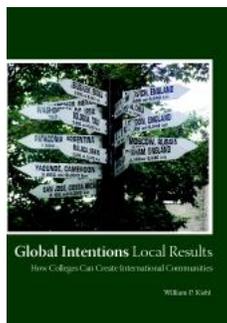

"The earliest incarnations of my work on amici curiae began at the University of Scranton, where I studied political science as an undergraduate. I entered with an interest in the judiciary, and I came across the fact that interest groups use the judiciary, reading Walker and Epstein's (1993) introductory treatment of the Supreme Court (one of the few undergraduate texts I have read). In my passion, I thank Leonard Champney, Joseph Cimini, Jean Harris, Robert Kocis, William Parente, and Gretchen Van Dyke."

Bill Kiehl has published a new book:
GLOBAL INTENTIONS LOCAL RESULTS:
How Colleges Can Create International Communities
$19.95 274 pages, illustrations ISBN 978-14404 02319

The book is an in-depth look at the influence of campus internationalization on local communities. Case studies at three small colleges in three small communities in Pennsylvania illustrate colleges faced challenges to bring the world to their communities. Is there an influence on the local community stemming from efforts to internationalize the campus? And if so, what is the higher education and the relationship between colleges and communities? Given the importance placed on higher education internationalization by the federal government, the findings will point to further suggestions for research.

By special arrangement with the publisher Bill is able to make his new book available to University of Scranton alumni at a discount off the list price of $19.95. In order to obtain the discount obtain the book for $15.99. This is the best price available for individual orders.

Danielles career in Corporate America as a Human Resources professional has enabled her to live and travel all over or occasion, but given that high quality craft shows are seasonal and so spread out geographically, it was an impossible task, she said. Although craft shows are wonderful experiences of high quality, juried crafts in all seasons. She has a nine year old very, very spoiled American Staffordshire Terrier who enjoys all the pampering his mother can give him, therefore she ch craft fair' and the way it looks it is well on its way. Products are handmade, original designs, handpainted, handcrafted, and one-of-a-kind created from top quality materials. They consist of state craft guilds. To be a juried artisan is to be judged in the areas of quality, craftsmanship, design, style and material by a panel of top artists who have already achieved this coveted status. Artisans from more than 50 countries contribute to these original crafts. Based out of Allentown, PA you may purchase products from A Spoiled Pet online at www.aspoiledpet.com Art
