On May 31, 2009 it will be 45 years since we walked away from the University of Scranton into the rest of our lives. We started in Army Barrack Buildings and watched as our University started to grow. Most of us came and went every day, others stayed over night. Have you seen how our University has changed? The Barrack buildings were gone before we were but now our new Student Union Building is history too. The campus has more than doubled in size and Linden Street and most of the side streets are closed. Most of the students stay over night either in the new Dorms or in house on the hill. Most of our Professors are gone, some resting in peace, others enjoying retirement. But the Spirit of the University continues to grow.

As the 1964 Reunion Committee begins to plan for our weekend, we remember friends with whom we spend four wonderful years. Some of these friends we have not seen since that day when we received our diplomas; some we have seen at other reunions; others we have kept in close touch with. We remember our favorite professors; and some of the not so favorite. What we do remember is the Jesuit education we received which prepared us for our future. Some of us went to a professional school; others went to serve our country; and still others started their career. I would suspect a good number of us are retired or about to retire and enjoy the rest of our lives. Some have already departed this life.

After 45 years it is time to come back and renew you friendships. It is time to see how this great University has grown in stature. It is time to see how it has grown in size; you may have trouble recognizing it. The Committee for the 45th Reunion of the Class of 1964 invites you to come back to Scranton, to our University and relive the memories we left behind. Even though the time seems months away, it will be here before you know it. So mark you calendars for June 12-14, 2009. Make your hotel reservations now. Pull out the Windhover and see how many people you remember and may have forgotten. On June 12th see if you can recognize the friends you left behind.

We hope to see you at the University.
