

9. Call for Scholarly Contributions

The editorial board of URAM journal calls for scholarly contributions and invites authors to write articles on one of the subjects listed above in section 5. Encyclopedia of Human Ideas on Ultimate Reality and Meaning: A Plan and List of Topics. Content and format guidelines are suggested above in section 1 under Notes for Contributors. Authors are also invited to present their essays during the URAM Biennial Meetings to discuss their presentation with interested readers. This is an exceptional occasion for newly published authors to call the attention of other colleagues to their recent and earlier publications.

Authors are further invited to review and assess articles published in URAM journal and initiate discussions with colleagues on how the idea of ultimate reality and meaning can be further unearthed.

Participants at the meeting have a unique opportunity to discuss the methods used by writers, make structural reflections on the universal dynamics driving the human mind to discover, or just to discuss questions about “ultimates” as they appear in the article published so far in our Journal.

Our publications and our meetings are special. They are not like others. Please come and see.

We expect to see our readers there. And we will be not surprised when we find that you come back again and again.
