

The University of Scranton - Office of Student Conduct - Sanctioning Guidelines (2023-2024)

Office of Student Conduct Mission Statement

The Office of Student Conduct seeks to educate students regarding their behavioral responsibilities as members of the University community and to ensure the process used to adjudicate matters of misconduct is consistent and fair-minded. Recognizing the uniqueness of each student, the conduct process is grounded in the Ignatian ideal of promoting the development of the whole person. The discipline process is educational and formative in nature.

Sanctioning Philosophy

Students who accept responsibility or are found responsible for violating the Student Code of Conduct are generally assigned an administrative sanction and one or more developmental sanctions. Sanctions are designed to educate, foster development, encourage thoughtful decision making, and protect the University community. In determining appropriate sanctions, the University considers the nature of the violation including the impact on the community and its members, the institutional sanctioning guidelines, the student's prior disciplinary history, and the individual student's needs. This method of determining appropriate sanctions balances consistency with the Ignatian ideal of cura personalis, or care of the whole person as a unique individual.

How to Use the Sanctioning Guidelines

The Sanctioning Guidelines exist to ensure a level of consistency with sanctioning. The University reserves the right to deviate from the guidelines if the circumstances warrant. Administrative sanctions are usually paired with one or more developmental sanctions to achieve the educational and developmental outcomes that the discipline process is designed to achieve. The guidelines provide a range of sanctions assuming a student has no prior disciplinary history. If a student has a prior disciplinary history, the nature of the prior violation(s) and the prior sanction(s) must be considered by the Conduct Officer in determining appropriate sanctions for the most recent violation. The Director of Student Conduct is always available to consult with Conduct Officers and Conduct Bodies to ensure the application of appropriate sanction(s). If a sanction is marked with an *, then the University has identified a preference for a required administrative sanction.

Multiple Charges

It is not necessary to list all charges that relates to an incident. Conduct Officers should choose the most appropriate charge(s) to respond to the incident keeping in mind the educational and developmental objectives of the conduct process.

Escalation of Sanctions

These guidelines provide a range of sanctions for each offense assuming that a student has no prior conduct history. In instances where mandatory minimum sanctions exist, they are noted within the guidelines. If a student has a prior conduct history, the nature of that history must be examined by the Conduct Officer or Conduct Body. If the nature of the offense(s) that comprise a student's prior disciplinary history is/are similar to the nature of the current offense (i.e., both involve alcohol/drugs, both involve violence, both involve disorderly behavior), the administrative sanction will generally escalate from one incident to the next. For example, a student who received a Disciplinary Censure for an incident involving alcohol will generally receive a minimum of Disciplinary Probation for a second incident involving alcohol. If the nature of the offense(s) that comprise a student's prior conduct history is not similar in nature to the current offense (i.e., prior involved alcohol, now violence with no alcohol), the administrative sanction may escalate from one incident to the next. Students who engage in violations of the Student Code of Conduct that are motivated by considerations of race, ethnic origin, ability, gender, and/or sexual orientation will receive escalated sanctions.
